

2018 Ms. Heartland visits CVES and Johnson twins

By Lisa Fischer

SCOTIA -- Dr. Seuss Week and a chance to see the twins she used to care for are two of the main reasons Miss Heartland 2018, Brooke Lodl came to visit Central Valley 2nd graders.

On March 8, Lodl visited with students about being advocates and how to spread kindness. Lodl also discussed her platform "Taking the Dis- Out of Disability." Ms. Heartland is studying Special Education at Wayne State College and cared for Brittany and Avery Johnson, now 2nd graders, while working at Bright Beginnings Child Enrichment Center in Scribner.

"Brooke reached out and wanted to see the girls," said the twin's mother Christy Johnson. "I'm glad it worked out for her to visit with all the second graders at Central Valley Elementary."

Lodl will compete for Miss Nebraska in North Platte in June 2018. If you would like more information on Miss Heartland, Miss Nebraska, or on Brooke's platform, feel free to email her at missheartland2018@gmail.com. "
